ABSTRACT

Twenty-one elementary and secondary school media centers in New Jersey are listed and special aspects of their media programs are described. Each school is identified by name, address, size, number of staff, and size of collection. In part 2 is an additional listing of New Jersey schools that have innovative provisions and practices in their school media centers. These include computerized library processes, security systems, special collections, graphics, open classrooms, integrated shelving, new construction or remodeling, radio stations, and television. Introduction

The program of media centers consists of all the media services which are provided both within the walls of the center itself and throughout the school in the classrooms to both teachers and students. It is not established quickly - or even in one year. Its effectiveness is determined by the quality and quantity of staff provided, by the concept of service held by the media staff, faculty, and administration, and of course by the resources with which media staff and faculty are able to work - physical facilities, media collections, equipment, and the like.

This release continues the work started by the Committee in 1970 under the direction of Miss Mary V. Gaver. A revised release followed in 1972, chaired by Dr. Phyllis Van Orden.

The Committee gathered current data on the expenditures and nature of media collections, sent questionnaires to schools listed in its 1972 release, visited schools, and analyzed the findings before making its final, limited selections. A number of schools which appeared in the earlier releases do not appear here for a number of reasons: too many visitors to continue; changes in personnel, facilities, and school populations.

The Committee has appreciated the cooperation shown by the schools in sharing their programs with visitors.

There must be some centers that we have missed; in that case, we welcome your calling them to our attention for consideration in the next edition of this list.

Suggestions to Visitors

Plan your visit so as to devote a period of at least three to four hours to one media center. The visitor cannot gain a real understanding of such an operation by a casual, quick "look-see"

If possible, arrange to visit classes which are making significant use of media, as well as the media center itself.

Arrange for teams of visitors: an administrator, a citizen/parent, a classroom teacher, and a media center specialist/librarian. Such a team visit has more potential for impact than a visit by a single person.

Arrange for a convenient time for your visit with the contact person identified in the description well in advance of the day of your visit. This is, of course, a requirement.

Suggestions to Host Schools

If you can prepare a one-page fact sheet of data about your school and media center, and have it ready to give out to visitors, you will find that it saves time for everyone.

Share the "hosting responsibilities" with staff members and students.

Your administrator may wish to decide ahead of time on what days of the week you can accept visitors and the maximum number you can take. Many schools may not be able to tolerate heavy visitation and it must be understood that the school makes a major contribution in opening itself to such visits.

General Notes

All schools in the recommended list exceed the state averages for the years studied on number of books per pupil for audiovisual media exclusive of federal funds. All have at least one full-time media specialist on the staff (although most have more than one), all have unified media programs or the library and audiovisual programs are cooperative and closely approaching a unified status. Of greatest importance, all the programs are operating at an outstanding degree of effectiveness in media services. The notes point out special aspects of the program which may be of particular interest to different visitors.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Barley Sheaf School, Barley Sheaf-Reaville Road, Flemington, NJ 08822 (Flemington-Raritan Regional Elementary School District) (Hunterdon County)

Mrs. Evelyn Stewart, Media Specialist
Mr. Stanley Robinson, Principal

Visitors should contact Mrs. Stewart (201-782-8313) to make visiting arrangements.

Grades K-4. Enrollment 450. Over 5,400 books and over 2,715 audiovisual items including microforms, filmstrips, sculptures, art prints, kits, etc. This is a center where all of our senses (touch, feel, look, hear) are called into play as one absorbs the displays, the collections, and the student produced materials. Interest-activity areas include weaving, printing-press and student publications ready for circulation, hobbies, and art work. Puppetry is high on the activity list with several stages and a variety of puppets. Instruction begins in kindergarten, including equipment operation for first graders. By third grade, instruction comes from assignments that teachers have required which call for library skills.
This description only hints at the wide variety of experiences available to students and teachers.

Clarendon School, 685 Fifth Street, Secaucus, NJ 07094 (Hudson County)

William J. Koenig, Director of Media
I. Stanley Massarsky, Principal
Visitors should contact Mrs. Patricia McNamara or Mrs. Arlene Sgambati (201-864-1954) to schedule visitations.

Grades K-6. Enrollment 650. Staff includes one full-time professional, two full-time clerks, and one part-time AV coordinator. School consists of four circular buildings with adjustable walls. Completely wired for closed circuit TV with control center located in library. There are several production areas for student and teacher use. Program is completely media oriented. School has I P I and M U S E programs. Media center staff play key rolls in curriculumn development. Many support services provided by media center staff. In addition to the main media center there are two small satellite centers which house reference books, instructional materials, and AV equipment. Media center remains open during spring and winter recess as well as entire summer.

J. Spencer Smith School, Downey Drive, Tenafly, NJ 07670 (Bergen County)

Elaine Schniderman, Media Specialist
M. Donald Miller, Principal
Visitors should contact Miss Schniderman (201-568-5333) to make visiting arrangements.

Grades K-5. Enrollment 250. Close to 9000 v. and over 2,300 audiovisual items including many tapes, study prints, art prints, etc. Library instruction in such areas as outlining, note-taking, are the result of close work with teachers. School is media oriented including use of TV.
Noteworthy for regular interaction with other media specialists in the system, with administrators, and with public library personnel. Ordering and processing cooperatively handled for elementary media centers. A truly media oriented situation!

Somerdale Park School, Grace Street, Somerdale, NJ 08063 (Camden County)

Mrs. Olga Prychka, Librarian-Media Specialist
Mr. Frank Oehlers, Principal
Visitors should contact Mrs. Prychka (609-783-6261) to make visiting arrangements.

Grades K-6. Enrollment 550. The Media Center also serves another elementary school (grades k-6), whose enrollment is

265. The staff includes one full-time professional, one full-time clerk, and a few student aides. The media center operates on an open schedule, thus making it available at all times (8AM-4PM). Classes can be scheduled to meet specific needs, such as instruction in skills, multi-media sessions, media production, and general research sessions with librarian-teacher teamwork. A study room is available for group work, taping, listening, etc. A Teacher-Resource Area houses teaching resources typewriters, and duplicating devices. A section for the primary grades is available for story hours and book exchange periods, which does not interfere with the general use of the center. Video-tape equipment is a recent acquisition and is being experimented with in the classroom and in group activities. Life-size science models, learning kits, art prints and art sculptures have rounded out the collection this year.

Sea Girt Elementary School, Bell Place and Hwy. 71, Sea Girt, NJ (Monmouth County)

Mrs. Shirley Norby, Librarian/Media Specialist
Mr. William Pentony, Administrative Principal
Visitors should contact Mrs. Norby (201-449-3422 or 449-3423) to make visiting arrangements.

Non-graded K-8 school. Enrollment 300. Staff includes one full time professional, one full-time clerk, three parent volunteers (part-time). 6,500 v. plus well balanced AV collection. Much provision for individualized programs. Heavy use of hardware and software in the IMC and throughout the school. Team approach. Children constantly moving from room to room. Typewriter for students, VTR, TV, 16mm projection room for small groups, wet carrels. Great use of hallways by students for individualization. The librarian teaches a Great Books literature class daily to Pre-High students and coordinates a Jr. Great Books program for children ages 8-12. Sea Girt program was subject of 1975 NJEA film, "The Many Ways They Learn". Fully unified media program. Special programs in school are: AAAS science in all three teaching teams, Orff method of teaching music, Ham Radio Club, movement ed. in Phys. Ed., contract approach is SS and science for Pre-High students. Parent volunteers used daily on all teams.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOLS

Cedar Drive School, R.D. #2, Colt's Neck, NJ 07722 (Monmouth County)

Mrs. Sharon Loysen, Media Specialist
Mr. William J. Morris Principal
Contact either Mr. Morris or Mrs. Loysen (201-462-1156) to make visiting arrangements.

Grades 6-8. Enrollment 560. Library aide (5 hours per day) plus several parent volunteers, student AV and library aides. Accessible circulating media collection with strong emphasis on individualized use of media in a fully unified media program. Program particularly effective in work with teachers, instruction in media skills and individualized study. Open scheduling. Special programs: FLES, Remedial Reading, Special Education, 7th and 8th grade mini-courses, 8th grade seminar, HIGH INTEREST AREA. This is a traditional rectangular library that has been developed into an active media center. Most of the physical changes can be easily adapted by anyone interested in changing their library to a media center.

Dwight D. Eisenhower School, Burlington Road, Freehold, NJ 07728
(Monmouth County)

Mr. Philip Zollner, Media Specialist
Mr. Lloyd Belton, Principal
Visitors are welcome 9AM to 3:30PM. Contact Mr. Zollner (462-8400, ext. 48)

600 students in grades 6-8. Grade 6 self-contained, but with some team teaching. Grades 7 and 8 grouped into six 3-teacher teams for basic academic subjects. Media center is octagonal shaped in the center of the building. A full-sized media center classroom is adjacent to the center separated by a folding partition. Staff includes two full-time aides. Student assistance is encouraged, but without formal organization. Open scheduling with skills instruction given as assignments require. Unified all-media catalog with some AV media circulating. About 1700 non-book items, including a basic 16mm film collection. Camera club active in local production, with slide, filmstrip, and dry-mount projects open to all students. Provision for independent study in grades 7 and 8. Seven year microfilm collection available.

Florence M. Gaudineer School, So. Springfield Ave., Springfield, NJ 07081
(Union County)

Grades 6-8. Enrollemnt 580. Staff includes full-time secretary, aide. 12,500 v. plus variety of non-print materials. Humanities program and individualized instruction play an important role in making the media center an extension of the classroom which results in a fully unified program. A warm and happy atmosphere is reflected. A visit here may restore your faith in American education.

- - - 7

Hackensack Middle School, 360 Union St., Hackensack, NJ 07601
(Bergen County)

Anne Laderman and Erna Singer, Media Specialists
Mr. Eugene Dellare, Principal
Contact Mr. Dellare (201-488-4100) to make arrangements

Grades 6-8. Enrollment 1010. Staff includes two professionals and one full time secretary. Strengths in program include book talks, total integration of media center with curriculum and an active ETV program (closed circuit TV). Beginning September, 1975 media center study carrels will be equipped for dial access to TV tapes. Career Development Center has been decentralized and the program continued within each school. This is a major emphasis and is reflected in the media center resources and program. Faculty making effective use of media in teaching can be observed throughout the school.

HIGH SCHOOLS

Columbia High School, 17 Parker Ave., Maplewood, NJ 07040 (Essex County) (South Orange - Maplewood)

Mr. James W. Stanford, Head Library Services
Mr. Serge Angiel, Principal
Visitors should contact Mr. Stanford (201-762-5600, ext. 325 or 338) for visiting arrangements.

Grades 10-12. Enrollment 2000. Media staff includes four professionals, one part-time AV technician, and paid student help. School has a house plan structure of four houses. Library resource center, 15,000 sq. ft. and AV area, 9,000 sq. ft., are housed in new wing but on separate floors and its collections, especially strong in media kits, slides, pamphlets, and recordings consists of 25,000 v. and thousands of non-print items all of which, including most equipment, is available to students and staff for use and circulation.
Interaction between media center and departments and local libraries (inter-library loans, planned purchasing, etc.) support of the alternative school, independent study programs, and staff participation in various non-library activities are noteworthy. Student and class use of the library is intense and the credit courses in library research and the proposed AC credit course may be of interest. Facilities include TV studio, preview facility, seminar rooms, art media room, and professional library.

Supports new humanitistic U.S. history courses: Strong team teaching of research skills. Informal, pleasant atmosphere, combined with ease of access and use.

INNOVATIVE PROVISIONS AND PRACTICES IN SCHOOL MEDIA CENTERS

Revised Release

Development of School Media Programs Committee

New Jersey School Media Association

This list constitutes a second report on places identified as having a variety of kinds of innovations on which educators need additional information and would like to observe. The schools have not been visited by the Committee, no evaluation has been possible, and the list is in all likelihood imcomplete. A further limitation is the decision to omit some new practices now well enough established that they are no longer really innovations.

The original listing, issued in November, 1971, identified places having the following innovations which are not included in this second release:

Listening-viewing facilities (wet carrels)
Individual study facilities (dry carrels)
Divisional/Departmental Resource Centers (Secondary)
Satellite Centers/Classroom Clusters/Learning Centers (Elementary)
Numerous Exits
Extensive use of Glass

It is suggested that if you would like to observe any of the above innovations that you consult the 1971 release.

You are invited to report in writing to any of the Committee members the identification of any centers with innovations which you would like to have the Committee consider for another edition.

Visitors must make their own arrangements in advance by contacting the school superintendent or principal before going to the school.
